

Contents

Part 1: Introduction and Theoretical Reflections

- 1 Introduction
Susanne Brucksch, Kaori Sasaki
Pages 3-20
- 2 Theoretical Reflections on Medical Devices and the Sociocultural Context in the Locale of Japan
Susanne Brucksch, Kevin Wiggert
Pages 21-51

Part 2: Experiences with Radiation

- 3 Knowledge and Culture Behind the Dosimetry System: Japanese Scientists, Radioactive Disasters, and the Technologies for Measuring Radioactivity in the 20th Century
Maika Nakao
Pages 55-83
- 4 Monitoring Disaster: 3.11, Radiation Measurement, and Public Health in Fukushima
Shi Lin Loh
Pages 85-109

Section 3: Patient Safety, End-of-life and High-tech Medicine

- 5 Standardized Brain-Death Diagnostic Procedure: The Japanese Controversy of the 1980s-1990s
Kaori Sasaki
Pages 113-141
- 6 Medical Technology, Terminal Care, and Criminal Law: Court Cases from Japan
Yuji Shiroshita
Pages 143-166
- 7 The Role of Incident-Reporting Systems for Improving Patient Safety in Japanese Hospitals: A Comparative Perspective
Naonori Kodate, Ken'ichiro Taneda, Akiyo Yumoto, Yoshiko Sugiyama
Pages 167-196

Part 4: Innovation and Diffusion of Medical Devices

- 8 The Postwar Medtech Industry in Japan: A Business History Perspective
Pierre-Yves Donzé
Pages 199-223
- 9 Close Collaboration Between Medical Professionals and Engineers in Medical Devices Innovation: The Commons for Medicine and Engineering
Japan Liaison Platform
Kazuo Tanishita
Pages 225-251

Part 5: Engineering and Evaluating Medical Technology

- 10 Empowering Patients in Interactive Unity with Machines: Engineering
HAL (Hybrid Assistive Limb) Robotic Rehabilitation System
Patrick Grüneberg
Pages 255-280
- 11 Innovative Technology, Clinical Trials, and the Subjective Evaluation of Patients: The Cyborg-type Robot HAL and the Treatment of Functional Regeneration in Patients with Rare Incurable Neuromuscular Diseases in Japan
Takashi Nakajima
Pages 281-310

Part 6: Conclusions

- 12 Conclusions on Socio-Technical Settings in Medical Contexts from the Locale of Japan
Susanne Brucksch
Pages 313-324